“All our children have benefited from taking these guitar classes . . . we’ve maxed out and every class has been met with much enthusiasm from the students!” - Cheri Meyers, Extension Program Director, Foothill Country Day School, Claremont. Students will learn how to play the guitar, chords, and basic music reading. All classes are focused in teaching fundamentals of music while applying these principles to the student’s instrument.

The “Guitar Workshop” is open to anyone and everyone in the community wanting to learn guitar. The fee for the class is $99 for a 9-week session including materials needed for the class. Classical guitars are also available to rent or purchase at rock bottom prices from $30 to $89 respectively. These handcrafted guitars are designed for the beginning student.
